2014

It's been said that change is the only constant. At Colt, our commitment to innovation is tempered with passion for our history and our long heritage of producing the world's finest firearms. While change is constant, maintaining our roots is something Colt will always do. For the last 10 years, Colt Defense has designed, developed and manufactured small arms for the military and law enforcement market as a separate company. During that period Colt's Manufacturing Company has continued to provide sportsmen and collectors with the handguns and rifles that made the Colt name synonymous with American quality and reliability. This year we are excited and proud to announce that these two great arms of the Colt brand have been combined back into one company. Proving that a sum is greater than its parts, a single vibrant and dynamic company will now be designing and producing firearms under the iconic Colt name for all markets. We are particularly excited that we were able to complete this process in time for the 2014 commemoration of Samuel Colt's 200th birthday. I believe he would be proud to know his name is once again borne by a single company that represents the very best in American firearm manufacturing. As our unified company moves forward, our one true constant will be maintaining Colt's historical commitment to quality across every market we serve.

Dennis Veilleux,
President and Chief Executive Officer
Colt's Manufacturing Company LLC

MY PASSION. MY COLT.

In honor of Sam Colt's 200th birthday, we produced a true masterpiece. The commemorative pistol features double gold bands on the cylinder and a single band on the barrel with a gold-plated hammer, trigger and action screws. The barrel itself features Sam Colt's signature inlaid with gold. The cylinder features the Colt Dome engraved on the right side, and his likeness on the left side. All parts are finished in the signature Colt Royal Blue - all crafted by the experienced craftsmen in the Colt Custom Shop.

The Colt story is legendary, beginning with Samuel Colt's revolutionary designs manufactured out of his factory in Paterson, New Jersey in 1836. But the most important stories belong to the men and women who have owned and relied on Colt firearms ever since. We're highlighting a few of these owners throughout this catalog. While these are their stories, we are proud to have been a part of them. The Colt owners featured here were selected from our 2013 Facebook Contest. Their stories emulated the heritage that Colt has passed on since 1836. Read more and share your own stories at www.facebook.com/coltfirearms.

“THE FIRST FIREARM I EVER HELD WAS A COLT DETECTIVE SPECIAL.”

HANK KUGACZEWSKI

My father introduced me to shooting. My most special memory was the first time he reached to his side, took his revolver out of his holster, unloaded it and handed it to me. He lectured me about safety and responsibility as I held that pistol, and I clearly remember the Colt on the diamond wood grips. I recently purchased a Detective Special just like my father's. It wasn't an easy find. I've been able to pass on the traditions and memories I shared with my father to my son.

“MY PASSION FOR COLT STARTED WHEN I WAS 6 YEARS OLD.”

STEPHANIE BERSCH My Dad taught me how to shoot his 3rd Generation Colt Woodsman Match Target® at a very early age. He always taught me that girls could do anything that boys could do, and to never set a limit on myself. This gun is special to me because it is something I shared only with my Dad, and knowing that his little sharpshooter made him proud made me very happy. To this day, this is still my favorite gun. It's such a classic and so well made, and I love cleaning it and polishing it back to a gleam after shooting it. It always makes me smile knowing it's been a part of my life for so long.

01070CQB MARINE PISTOL

HAND CRAFTED BY THE COLT CUSTOM SHOP

More than 100 years ago, the Colt 1911 was chosen as the official sidearm for America's Armed Forces. Today, a Colt 1911 is once again proudly serving at the side of our country's military. After a rigorous selection process, the United States Marine Corps selected the Colt Rail Gun as their Close Quarters Battle Pistol. This marks the first time since the end of World War II that a Colt 1911 is being shipped to the United States Government.

To honor the brave men and women of this important staple of America's military might, the Colt Marine Pistol will be made available in limited quantities through the Colt Custom Shop. What makes the Marine Colt stand out is its Desert Tan Cerakoted Stainless Steel Receiver and Slide, Novak® 3 Dot Night Sights and Flat, Serrated Mainspring Housing with Lanyard Loop. Along with its patented look, the pistol also features an Enhanced Hammer, Colt Tactical Ambidextrous Safety Lock, and a 5" National Match® Barrel. The Colt Custom Shop performs hand fitting of critical mating parts and each firearm is test fired by the Custom Shop and supplied with the actual test target.

The distinctive shape, style, appearance and coloring of the Colt® 01070CQB is a trademark of New Colt Holding Corp. (patents pending)

“COLT WILL ALWAYS BE A PART OF MY FAMILY.”

JUSTIN HJULSTROM When I got to basic training in Ft. Leonard Wood, MO, I was issued a Colt M16 A2. I qualified with it on the first round. When I was deployed to Iraq, I was issued a very old M4 at Ft Dix, NJ. It was the oldest rifle in the armory. I zeroed it on the first three shots, hitting dead-center. I qualified 40 out of 40 shots on my first try - I didn't have to adjust one setting on that rifle. That day, I went back to the barracks, called my local gun shop and demanded a Colt. Then I got my wife a Colt Mustang. I trusted my life with Colt in Iraq, and I trust them with the safe-keeping of those I hold the most dear.

The most demanding situations call for the power, performance and innovation found in the LE6940. Simply put, the advantage of the LE6940 is unmatched. For starters, the one-piece monolithic upper receiver incorporates a continuous Mil-Spec rail from the rear of the upper receiver to the front sight. This delivers unrivaled repeatability for mounting accessories not found with separate handguard rail systems. What's more, its true free-floating barrel provides the enhanced accuracy necessary for long-range acquisition capability.

HOW IT ALL STARTED

More than 175 years ago, an obscure young seaman, Calcutta bound, carved a model of what was destined to become the world's most famous revolver from a block of wood. His name was Samuel Colt, and from the spark of his inventive genius, came the modern firearms of today. One would have to search diligently through the pages of history to find a more romantic and glamorous figure than Samuel Colt. His was the mind of a genius, a planner and a dreamer, all in one. His vision was not local, but worldwide. His ambition exceeded mere prosperity and power. Complete satisfaction could only be his when he had reached the pinnacle of his chosen field. His own deeds and the life he lived have immortalized him, and the products that still bear his name are a constant tribute to his ability and his resourcefulness. Samuel Colt's effort to market his inventions is a record of amazing courage, ingenuity and perseverance. That one so young in years and so handicapped by poverty and lack of prestige could prevail against such odds is one of the marvels of individual American enterprise.

ALWAYS make sure that the target and the area surrounding the target are safe before shooting.

NEVER rely on the firearm's safety mechanism and ALWAYS abide by safety rules regardless of whether the firearm is unloaded or on safety.

ALWAYS make sure the barrel of the firearm is clear of obstructions according to the safety and instruction manual.

ONLY place your finger on the trigger when you are actually aiming at a safe target and have made the decision to fire.

ALWAYS use the proper ammunition for your particular firearm.

ALWAYS refer to the operation manual if your firearm fails to fire.

NEVER alter or modify your firearm.

NEVER shoot a firearm at hard surfaces or water.
